STEVE BROWN NAMED VP OF RESTORATION AT DISASTER ONE

Greensboro, NC: July 30, 2012 – Steven W. Brown has been named Vice President of Restoration at Disaster One, Inc., in support of the company’s new strategic focus on expansion. Brown, who had been large loss and training manager, will be responsible for ensuring the company’s capacity and capability in terms of restoration expertise in Disaster One’s six offices covering the Southeast U.S. He will also continue to oversee company training and certifications.

“Steve is universally respected as a valued resource and a hard working colleague with high integrity,” said company president Rasmus Fenger in making the announcement. “His knowledge of water and mold is second to none in the industry and even so he is always looking to learn new things about our industry.”

Brown has over twenty years experience in the cleaning and restoration industry, and has been with Disaster One since 1994. The move comes at a time when Disaster One is expanding into new markets, including Wilmington, NC in February.
